CONTRACTOR OPPORTUNITIES ARE AVAILABLE FOR LEADERSHIP EDUCATORS

Peak Performance Group, Inc. (PPG) is looking for individuals with experience working in a corporate environment in a leadership position to teach our leadership programs. Our instructors are a team of experts who share the belief that people are an organization's greatest asset. We are committed to advancing the value of the "human asset" in the workplace by nurturing individual potential and challenging the way people work, team, and lead. Our instructors have exceptional knowledge, expertise and advanced degrees in adult education and in their respective fields, which include business, organization development, team development, motivation, negotiation, conflict management, interpersonal influence and organizational psychology.

Individuals interested in teaching for PPG's clients should have extensive experience in any of the following areas:

- Team leadership
- Change management
- Negotiation
- Organizational analysis and design
- Building high performance teams
- Strategic planning

PPG will train instructors in delivery of our courses, which are comprehensive, instructionally sound, professionally written, and reflective of current research. Our goal is to teach our clients more how to think than what to think. To that end, we look for individuals with understanding of adult education theory.

Travel may be required as our clients are located throughout the US and globally.

Qualifications required include:

- Adult education experience
- Graduate degree
- Corporate experience, at a leadership level
